Damascus Ruritans Urge Care At Community Park

DAMASCUS — Officers of the Damascus Ruritan Club have appealed to people who patronize the community center and park to protect the wild flowers there, especially in the 17-acre new section which is rich with wild flowers.

The Ruritan conservation committee has charged that "a few thoughtless, misinformed people are rapidly destroying the flowers and plants" in the park. It reminded flower pickers that plucking wild blooms not only keeps the plants from multiplying but, in the case of members of the lily and trillium family, kills the parent plant.

The conservation group collected three hundred plants of six species, some of them rare, from nearby marshes and woodlots and transplanted them to the park. "Already half of these plants have been destroyed by picking," a committee spokesman said.

The Ruritans plan a botany trail in the park complete with flower name plates — providing flowers are left to identify after the current pillage.

"Poppy Day" will be observed here Saturday when the American Legion Auxiliary and Girl Scouts will combine their efforts to sell "poppies" to raise funds for veteran aid.

The Haldi Shoe Co. has begun a remodeling project that will nearly double the size of its store at E. State St.

The quarters will include the adjoining room formerly occupied by the Salem Style Shop, announced Charles Haldi, owner. The wall partition will be removed to make one large storeroom.

After the carpenters and electricians complete their work, new carpet and furniture will be installed in the redecorated store.

Mr. Haldi, who has been in the shoe business in Salem since 1906, founded his own store in 1928. Ten years ago he made his first expansion by adding a children's shoe department.

A new central stairway to the basement also is a part of the remodeling work.

Present rates have been in effect since February 1960.

Medicare As You Like It

President Kennedy says half the mail received at the White House about the medical aid plan he favors is based on misinformation.

This is easy to believe. It's our guess that half the people thumping for the medical aid plan the President favors are misinformed, too. They have been attracted by the bait and haven't looked for the hook. The hook is the taxes that would be collected under a Social Security setup. Pay more taxes and we'll take care of part of your hospital bill if you get sick in the federal government's promise.

The King-Anderson bill, which is the President's favorite, would be a bitter disappointment if it were adopted. It would be as bitter a disappointment as the Kerr-Mills bill, which was passed, and so far hasn't got off the ground. In Ohio it's not even on the launching pad. It never was adopted here.

IF THE Kennedy administration is right and it can turn on enough steam to blast the King-Anderson bill into effect this year, the problem of paying for the cost of a medical emergency will still be with us. All persons not covered by Social Security would still have the problem. This bill is not all-inclusive.

It makes no pretense of doing anything about doctors' bills, moreover. While these are not as hard to bear as the pyramiding costs of hospital care, they are nevertheless a part of the whole problem.

What it all amounts to in the final analysis is that more and more people are running out of money before they come to the end of their lives. It is still possible in this day and age to grow old gracefully, but it is almost impossible to be sick in bed inexpensively.

The best trick of all is to sustain a terminal illness without courting financial ruin. If the patient doesn't run out of money, the people who are standing by him are likely to be plunged into debt. This is what is called a medical emergency, but in truth it is more like a medical certainty.

THE PROBLEM is to find some way to afford the quality of medical care that most people expect to receive. Doctors are as interested in it as their patients. Hospitals are interested in it. Naturally, politicians are interested in it. "There's votes in them thar bills."

Everybody is entitled to his own ideas. Not all of us can hire Madison Square Garden or a nationwide electronics hookup to line up popular support, but with what is now available few of us would feel like wasting the money.

Neither the Kerr-Mills bill nor the King-Anderson bill would do what needs to be done, which is to underwrite the staggering cost of running out of health belatedly and being forced to pay for long-drawn-out care with nothing coming in to meet the bills.

THE FACT IS, most of us can't afford to grow as old as improved medical care makes it possible for us to get, especially if our earning power has been ended for some years.

The problem is to figure out a way to provide money if we run out of it too soon.

It won't be solved by the King-Anderson bill.

It certainly wasn't solved by the Kerr-Mills bill.

If it can be solved at all, the boys will have to think harder than they've shown any sign of thinking so far.

Back to the Drawing Board

If the taxpayers' money holds out, the about building rockets as it knows about building automobiles and airplanes.

Its skill will improve by fits and starts. Improvements will not be continuous, as a subcommittee of the House Space Committee was reminded last week by testimony on the costly failure of the Centaur rocket that exploded less than two minutes after liftoff on May 8. This was the high-lift hydrogen-fueled rocket that could have put a communications satellite into a permanent orbit so high it would have appeared to be in a fixed position—about 22,000 miles above the earth's surface.

The rocket failed because of an engineering blunder, but that was only the immediate evidence of a failure that began with a faulty setup among the agencies responsible for its construction.

They did not take advantage of what should be common knowledge. They were crippled by awkward organization. There is reason to believe they crippled themselves at public expense by carrying on the childish departmental jealousies that have become too costly to tolerate.

The problem of the Soviet Union is said to be encroaching fear of the deadly cost of keep up with the American Joes in an armaments race. Our deep thinkers are pointing to the possibility the Russians may go broke.

In their lucid intervals they should point to another possibility—that the United States could go broke first if the Russians are better at getting their heads together before they piddle away millions on rockets that won't work because their engineering experts never asked one another beforehand where bloopers had been made.

S.O.S. On R.F.D.

You can make your letter carrier happy, especially if you live on a rural route, by repairing and painting that shoddy-looking mail box alongside the highway or road where you live.

Because this is "National Mailbox Improvement Week," postal officials are taking the opportunity to urge patrons to do their part to help in the efficient, speedy delivery of mail. Whereas city carriers face the hazard of dogs while making their appointed rounds, rural carriers must contend with receptacles that are either rusted or bent or tilted almost beyond reach.

It's hard sometimes to lift a mortgage and even harder to carry it.

Once Over

Oxford gives Charlie Chaplin an honorary degree in a couple of weeks and we'd like to see the greatest comic of silent screen days come waddling to the presentation in the old baggy pants, ragged coat, devastated shoes and derby hat worn in role of whimsical tramp who convulsed millions.

There are in the public mind, two Chaplins, the funniest screen actor of his times, loved by all, and the one who later seemed less appealing.

The first was the most original comedian in the past 75 years, the laugh-getting little tramp of such films as "The Gold Rush," "Shoulder Arms" and "Tillie's Punctured Romance."

In imagination we will fancy him showing up at Oxford strictly for laughs, twirling his cane, rushing to the campus with his famous footwork, doffing his derby at nobody in particular and looking furtively over his shoulder for cops.

We will see a small lake in the scene, beside which Charlie will pause and interrupted by a park policeman, shove him into the water. He will then take off around winding paths, turning sharp corners on one foot.

Some stuffy faculty member will block him as an unwelcome intruder. Zowie! Swish! A custard pie in his face. Then off again, upsetting a baby carriage and nursemaid, tipping his derby in apology. In the distance behind him a dozen cops and campus guards.

Then to the Oxford platform dashing under the legs of some professor, and doing those acrobatics that brought belly laughs around the world once upon a time.

His rescue and recognition will be difficult, but he will make out okay. Degree presentation should be something brief like "To Charlie Chaplin, peerless pantomimist, comedian extraordinary, a man who convulsed multitudes without a spoken word, master of timing and the performer who changed custard pie from a pastry to an international institution."

As a finale we will see Charlie take the degree, register great hunger and try to eat it, shaking salt and pepper on it as he did when he devoured the sole of an old shoe in "The Gold Rush." (Take it from there. And ring in some degrees for Mack Sennett, Mable Normand, Marie Dressler and Jackie Coogan.)

NEW YORK COP is accused of stealing and selling three autos. That's curious way to enter used car business.

Harvard Board of Overseers has voted Harvard degrees to Radcliffe students and says they may properly be called Harvard girls. ("Mother was a Harvard woman?")

Crimson alma mater song runs "Fair Harvard, thy sons, etc." but tune is that of "Relieve Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms" famous tribute to the fair sex.

A survey is said to show buyers are tiring of small economy cars and are rushing back to prestige models. If so it may be partly due to fact that a big proportion of buyers are adults who have reached stage (early or advanced), where they can't get in or out of small cars without discovering they have stiffened up, and that body squeaks are in the man, not the auto.

Funny about those Waldorf Astoria waiters who struck. We never saw one there who seemed the least bit unhappy with his position

And Everything Was So Nice and Clean

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

That industrial civil war which will be known as the "SOB Saga" has just had its first anniversary.

The battle of steel on the Potomac opened a month ago. But the best part of the story has not been told.

It has been obscured by the President's dramatic 72-hour counter-attack against U.S. Steel and later the reconciliation talk with the leader of Big Steel.

The big story is that there may never again be industrial war — strikes — on the steel front.

The story is that even during the stormiest, cussing-out hours in the White House a month ago, a new era of good will was being negotiated by Big Steel and the big steel union in the Penn-Sheraton Hotel.

Sounds corny. Yes. But by any other name this new era will smell as sweet to the men who direct the behemoth mills and the tens of thousands who earn their daily bread in the surrounding steel belts.

Begin this side of the saga over at Forbes Field on Tuesday, April 10. It is opening day for the Pittsburgh Pirates. All of this city's baseball buffs are there — which of course includes steel union leader, David McDonald and U.S. Steel's labor relations vice president, Conard Cooper.

LONG BEFORE the seventh inning, Mr. Cooper, looking mighty serious for a fan whose ball club was trouncing the Phillies, sought out "Dave." The corporation executive said he'd like to see the union leader later that day. Mighty important.

That evening, McDonald looked for Cooper at the Penn-Sheraton.

Failing to find Cooper, McDonald went home. Cooper, chagrined at being detained, soon telephoned McDonald. Mighty important. McDonald hurried back to the hotel where they had been negotiating for weeks.

Cooper then explained the price increase and what had happened at the White House. Cooper had been eager to inform Dave before the union chief could see it in the papers or hear it on the air.

It had been mighty important to Cooper — the man who had held out against union demands during the 116-day strike back in '59 — that the union officials did not feel they had been taken in.

This was not a sign of weakness on Cooper's part.

As head of the four-man team which was bargaining for 11 major steel companies, Cooper had helped create the warmest feeling of good will in the last 10 years. He made it clear that McDonald had been told of the price increase as soon as President Kennedy had been informed.

LATER, McDonald said privately: "I want to say flatly, and without qualification, that the negotiations which we have just concluded with the basic steel companies were the healthiest and most fruitful in years... a new era..."

Why? Because this contract worked out by McDonald and his el David Feller, successor to union counsel David Feller, successor to Arthur Goldberg, ironed out gripes which have disturbed the industry-labor relations for 25 years. This has just not been reported.

There was the seniority problem. It had been breaking the hearts of older workers for years.

There are hundreds of little divisions in the big mills. Some have scores of workers. Some literally two or three men. The workers develop seniority in each division or department.

Thus a man could be on the job 25 years and be laid off if his section closed down. But at the same time another division needed men and hired youngsters. So the older workers were jobless and the kids earned the money. Now this will be corrected.

There was another problem. Some departments had to be worked round the clock. Others had to be closed temporarily. So while some members of the same union worked overtime, others were laid off. This will be corrected.

ANOTHER DISPUTE was over the type and amount of work supervisors and foremen could perform themselves. This was increasing, said the union, and it took work from the union's hourly-paid members.

There were union complaints over bogging down of grievance procedures. Important, too, was the union demand that steel workers be used for new construction work and repairs instead of the companies "contracting out" to construction firms.

For the first time, special union and company human relations teams went from plant to plant, talked to the men and saw what was happening right there in the mills.

And for the first time the industry agreed to reopen a contract so such changes could be made. The Human Relations Committee now is studying these problems.

Though the contact signed last month is for two years, it will be opened again in mid-'63 so the industry and the union can solve these specific problems half way.

Peace, it's wonderful. It survived despite the 72-hours' war on the New York-Washington front a month ago. And a new era of good will has been launched.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I know for a fact that our 20-year-old daughter is having an affair with a married man who is twice her age.

The man is her boss, which accounts for her two substantial increases in salary within a five-month period.

He is separated from his wife and family and maintains an apartment near the office. When I question her unusually late hours she flares up and says she's not a child and can do as she pleases.

Her father feels I should insist on respectability or invite her to leave the house. I'm fearful of giving such an ultimatum because I'm afraid she WILL leave and move into the man's apartment. This of course would ruin her reputation and possibly wreck her life.

What can a mother do?—AFRAID.

Dear Afraid: A girl 20 years of age is an adult and you are not going to change her pattern of behavior or her sense of moral values.

If you throw her out of the house she probably will strike back and use it as an excuse to do just the thing you are worried about. I can tell you now that this rebellious girl will not respond to preaching or threats. Your best bet is to get someone outside the immediate family to explain she is playing with high explosives and the results could be catastrophic.

No Place at Home

Dear Ann: I'm an 18-year-old girl, in my first year of business college. My boy friend is in the same class.

We both have jobs from 4 p.m. till 11 p.m., five days a week, so the only time we get to date is on Saturday and Sunday nights. Because he has no car and very little money to spend, we stay at home and watch TV every Saturday and Sunday night.

My folks know this, and you would think they'd cooperate by leaving us alone, but no, they sit right there in the living room with us and spoil everything. My grandmother lives with us and she sits there, too.

Do you think this is fair? What can I DO ABOUT IT? —NO COOPERATION.

Dear No Co: I feel terribly

sorry for a young couple with so little imagination that they are satisfied to vegetate in front of a TV set every weekend—and call it "a date."

So your boy friend has no extra money to spend and no car. You do have feet, don't you? There are many interesting places which are free. Look in your newspaper. Sorry, I'm not going to suggest that you shoot your parents and your grandmother so you can have the idiot box to yourself, kids.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Medical Care Pitfall

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Plan May Cause Hardships for All Americans

More medical care for the aged is how the administration's plan is usually described. But, though commendable in purpose, it may turn out to mean "less medical care for all ages."

The program championed by President Kennedy with the best intentions in the world can bring about a tragic setback for American — a hardship for old, for middle-aged and for young people.

For, instead of providing medical care for one age group, the end result may be not enough doctors to take care of the sick generally.

In Great Britain, for instance, after 14 years of socialized medicine, many people now call it a "mess." Large numbers of young British physicians are emigrating to other lands. They see no future in Britain because of low incomes, overwork and lack of opportunities to specialize. Conversely, medical students from India, Pakistan and other countries are flocking to Britain and predominate in the hospitals. They are usually internes or taking postgraduate work and go back home after a few years. Language difficulties are frequent. The hospitals in Britain continue to be understaffed. There's a scarcity of nurses and specialists.

Now, nobody is proposing that the British system of socialized medicine be duplicated in the United States but the critics of the Kennedy proposal are convinced it will inevitably produce some of the evils of socialized medicine. The shortage of doctors is expected to intensify and cause serious problems that could frustrate adequate medical care for all age groups.

With the growth of population in America, medical care, while of a high standard, is not as readily available as it used to be. Few doctors can take time to make house calls. Many doctors' offices are crowded with patients.

There's a tendency to run to the doctor for all aches and pains. If medical care is to be paid for in large part by the government, this tendency will increase and thus bring a deterioration in medical care generally because of a shortage of physicians.

Under a proposal now before Congress, it is planned to start 20 new medical schools and 20 new dental schools with state and federal matching funds. Where will the teachers come from? They too, are scarce.

Also, what's going to happen to the application lists for medical schools? Today many young people able to pay the tuition fees still are hard put to finance the eight-year period of study and then the year or two of service as internes.

In many a medical school today, the would-be doctor is married and his wife works, and her earnings support them both. This is said to be true of three out of five married students in the country's medical schools.

THE IMPORTATION of more physicians from other countries—where medical standards in the schools are questionable—would seem inevitable.

Last year almost 20 per cent of the doctors admitted to practice in this country came from foreign medical schools.

Family physicians, as compared to specialists and surgeons, are already too few. In 1940, general practitioners made up 62 per cent of all licensed physicians. Today the percentage is half that figure.

Even this percentage doesn't tell all of the story. Internists and those doctors who specialize, for example, in care for babies concentrate their practice in big cities. The population in small towns and rural areas is, therefore, desperately short of physicians in an emergency.

There's a marked trend, too, toward leaving private practice to go into research, teaching and hospital administration. The government itself is using more and more doctors. The shortage of doctors in the whole country is growing.

Thirty years ago, a doctor saw about 50 patients a week — half of them in their homes. Today, he sees an average of 100 patients a week, but 9 out of 10 come to the doctor's office. This often means long periods of waiting, for instance, just to get an injection of vitamins.

Time away from factory and office has been causing a big economic loss. Some companies have found that it saves them money to set up their own clinics and hire their own doctors to care for the routine needs of employees.

HOSPITAL ADMISSIONS are up about one-third over what they were 10 years ago, despite the supposed improvement in national health.

Hospital rates are higher. Private medical insurance is growing in scope and coverage. Now, with the federal government stepping in to pay hospital bills from billions of dollars to be collected annually through an increase in Social Security taxes, hospital cases will increase.

The doctors' offices, in turn, will be more crowded than ever and citizens of all ages are bound to suffer from the acute shortage of doctors' time.

Would young men in this country who consider becoming doctors be attracted to a profession where someday the government may ix the fees? Would they want to become general practitioners anyway, while specialists and surgeons fare much better in income?

It's the same old story of private initiative versus a socialized state where the government tries good politics today but eventually the facts catch up with the propaganda arguments.

The problem of medical care isn't really limited to the one group of senior citizens. It involves the quality of medical care that is going to be available to everybody.

Nature Imitating Art

By TRUMAN TWILL

Real doctors grind their teeth at the travesty on their profession that appears on television in medical skits.

Real lawyers feel the same way about play-acting legal beagles who give the public misleading ideas about the practice of law.

Everybody knows how detectives feel about the actors who always solve the mystery by being brighter than anybody else.

It can be imagined how the FBI boys feel about the gawk-box version of their most publicized alumnus, Eliot Ness.

But let's acknowledge something about real life—that it imitates art because it wants to dramatize itself.

I still chuckle about an associate who had seen so many newspaper plays and movies he once became a "Front Page" version of the city editor as played by Adolphe Menjou. This fellow was just another typical newspaper stuff — a down-at-the-heels character with the usual wife and kid to support. He looked, dressed and acted like everybody else until some of out-of-town bigshots showed up one day in connection with a local murder.

Whereupon our boy, to prove he knew what was expected of him, took to wearing his hat in the office, barking orders and letting a cigarette dangle loosely out of one corner of his sneering mouth. It was ridiculous. He never got over it.

Why do so many artists neglect their hair?

Why did some members of Congress wear gates-ajar collars and string ties?

Why do some Texans wear funny hats?

Why are women afraid of mice? What causes kids in this generation of young people to work so hard at being problems?

Why are prisoners the way they are?

What causes so many baseball players to chew tobacco?

These and dozens of other behaviorisms are nature imitating art. They are ingrained so deeply no one can be sure any more which is nature and which is art.

People act out the role they think they are playing even when it goes against their grain. They act tough when their hearts are bleeding, brave when they are coming apart at the seams, cool when they are burning up and burned up when they are cool.

It's a curious situation, and it keeps getting currier, thanks to the way television brings stereotyped images into living rooms. You wonder how things would be if everybody knocked off play-acting and dared to be natural.

It would be a mixup. No one would know who was who. No one would be able to tell the people from the actors, who would be the most mixed up of all.

Unity Twp. Annexation Meeting Set

EAST PALESTINE — Landowners in a proposed annexation area have scheduled a public meeting for Thursday night at 8 at Mackall Motors on Unity-East Palestine Road for consideration of the petition method of annexation, whereby only resident property owners are involved.

The annexation of sections of Unity Township to East Palestine was defeated 230-192 at the May primaries.

At that time, however, all members of the township except those in East Palestine and New Waterford were permitted to vote.

Annexation by petition is the only method immediately open to the affected residents, since law prohibits placing the issue on the ballot again for five years.

Local, county and state officials are expected to attend tomorrow night's meeting. The East Palestine Chamber of Commerce, headed by Atty. Barry Dickson, president, is in charge of arrangements.

The proposed annexation would increase the area of the city by about 1½ square miles. About 150 residences would be affected.

Residents in the petitioning areas are seeking annexation to take advantage of the city's sanitary sewer system. State and county health officials have ordered the areas, now serviced by septic tanks, to halt pollution of streams into which the waste flows.

If the annexation is not approved, the residents have no choice but to build their own sanitary sewage facilities at a cost estimated at about $100,000.

near where bits and pieces of wreckage from the Boeing 707 jet fell in the village square.

The discovery of the fuselage capped a widespread search which had begun about five hours before on a frustrating note.

"We just keep finding parts of it," said Curtis Green, assistant police chief of Centerville, 20 miles to the north.

"Parts of wings, pieces of fuselage, pieces of the inside. Just like you'd blown it to bits."

Mrs. Junior Rollins, 35, whose husband farms just north of here, said she heard "a large clap, like thunder" Tuesday night just after a storm had passed over.

"I looked out the door, but the sky was clear," she said.

Even as volunteers sought the living inside and around the fuselage, the Federal Aviation Agency and Civil Aeronautics Board flew in seven investigators from Kansas City to seek the cause of the disaster.

Hundreds of 7th graders of Centerville 113-225.

The plane, piloted by Capt. Fred Gray of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was last heard from at 9:15 p.m. (CST).

It gave a position report from 35 miles northeast of Kirksville, Mo., which is about 120 miles northeast of Kansas City, the next scheduled stop.

The Federal Aviation Agency reported the plane disappeared from its surveillance radar 25 minutes later—about the time it was due in Kansas City.

Violent thunderstorms, accompanied by high winds, torrential rains and hail, battered a wide area of Iowa and Missouri during the late afternoon and evening.

The Weather Bureau reported new squalls along a line east of Kansas City to east of Kirksville about the time the big craft vanished from the FAA's radar screen.

Two Centerville men, Jack Morris and Leo Craver, found the first piece of wreckage, a chunk of curved metal, on Highway 60 about five miles south of here.

They brought it to the police station. Officers called the highway patrol, learned that a Continental plane was missing and sent out search parties about 11 p.m.

Then, from widely scattered areas, came reports of wreckage being found.

U.S. Alarmed About Chinese Refugee Flow

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are becoming alarmed about the massive flow of refugees from Communist China into the British crown colony of Hong Kong.

The exodus has become so great that thousands of refugees are being sent back across the border.

The White House, State Department and other government authorities are trying to figure out how the United States can help Britain deal with the situation. Shipments of food and other relief supplies are possible as a first step.

President Kennedy was expected to discuss the problem at his news conference late today. In a message Tuesday to the United States Committee for Refugees, meeting here, he said the United States must show compassion to all those who flee from Communist tyranny.

On Capitol Hill there were demands that the United States use its huge resources of surplus foods to help the Chinese refugees.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee plans to open an inquiry next week into the plight of the refugees. State Department officials will testify Tuesday.

In Toronto, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said that Canada will admit 100 families of the refugees immediately. He said Canada also will provide food and relief for the refugees in Hong Kong.

The Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa has shown a definite interest in taking refugees.

not injured although his truck overturned.

The car burst into flames immediately after impact. Mrs. Lewis, who was wearing a seat belt, apparently had difficulty getting it unfastened, the Patrol reported. She finally got herself loose and started running down the highway with her clothing on fire, witnesses said.

The truck driver grabbed her and put the flames out by rolling her over on the ground.

The Rogers Volunteer Fire Department was called to extinguish the blaze in the car but the late model vehicle was destroyed.

Mrs. Lewis is part owner of the Lewis - Weinberger & Hill Academy of Cosmetology in East Liverpool and Youngstown.

Columbiana Woman Hurt
Mrs. Jessie Folmar, 83, of 351 Washington Ave., is in fair condition at Salem Central Clinic with multiple injuries suffered in a two-car collision on Rt. 14 near North Benton at 5:55 p.m. Tuesday.

Driver of the other car, Winifred Dutch, 40, of the Park House hotel, Columbiana, and a passenger, Edgar Esterly of New Waterford, were both treated at the hospital and released. The Columbiana woman suffered a laceration of the scalp, and Esterly received possible rib fractures and a bump on the head.

Mrs. Folmar was cited by the Patrol for failing to yield the right of way. Officers said she was headed west on the Western Reserve Rd., and failed to stop for a stop sign. Her car plowed into the right side of the other vehicle which was traveling north on Rt. 14.

No one was hurt in a two-car mishap at the junction of Rts. 30 and 170 north of East Liverpool at 8:40 p.m. Tuesday. According to the Patrol, Harry Woolmaker made a wide turn onto Rt. 170 and sideswiped a car operated by Shirley Ann Davis, 17, of East Liverpool. Woolmaker was arrested for driving left of center.

Car Kills Horse
A car driven by Lloyd F. Martin, 36, of 317 E. 3rd St., received considerable damage when it struck and killed a horse on Altemate Rt. 14, about a half mile north of Salem, at 4:30 this morning. The horse, owned by John F. Gilbert of MC 1, Salem, had broken loose earlier in the night.

Martin received a bruised hip in the mishap. He told the Patrol that he would go to his family doctor for treatment. Martin said the horse jumped directly in front of his 1961 car while he was driving south on Rt. 14.

After Martin's car struck and killed the horse, a truck came along and dragged the animal for a considerable distance down the highway. Salem firemen were called to wash down the road.

Court Rules Police Slayer Must Die

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court said today that James R. Buck, 24, Akron police slayer, must die in the electric chair on June 22.

The court set the execution date in Ohio Penitentiary after unanimously denying him a writ of habeas corpus for a sanity examination.

Buck was convicted of the first-degree murder of Floyd A. Weatherholt, Akron policeman, during an exchange of shots on March 25, 1960, following the robbery of Sid's Camera Shop in Akron.

At a court hearing here May 15, Akron attorneys Bernard I. Rosen and J. Bernard Harris pleaded for further examination of Buck on grounds that he is "less than mentally well."

Buck was tried in Akron after an examination at Lima State Hospital showed he was sane. The high court said Ohio law provides that "a defendant who does not plead not guilty by reason of insanity is conclusively presumed to have been sane at the time of the commission of the offense charged."

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle conducted a clemency hearing for Buck last April 18 but postponed a decision to permit Ohio Supreme Court consideration of the Habeas corpus request.

Storms Rake Midwest 2nd Straight Day

By The Associated Press
Storms diminished across the Midwest today after another outbreak of tornadoes, heavy rain and hail and damaging winds for the second straight day.

Thunderstorms continued far into the night in the Middle and Upper Mississippi Valley.

A weakening squall line that had set off tornadoes in southern Minnesota and northeastern Kansas was accompanied by severe thunderstorms in northern Missouri, eastern Iowa, southeastern Minnesota and southwestern Wisconsin.

A Continental Airlines jet with 45 persons aboard apparently disintegrated in the storm belt near the Iowa-Missouri border in the area of Centerville, Iowa, on a flight from Chicago to Kansas City, Mo.

Violent thunderstorms raked Iowa, with heaviest damage in eastern sections of the state.

Twisters which hit several communities in Minnesota knocked out power and telephone lines, unroofed several buildings and toppled trees. The tornadoes were reported in Owatonna, Geneva, Hartland, Grand Meadows and Albert Lea. No injuries were reported.

A tornado damaged two farm houses near Leavenworth, Kan., and touched down briefly in Leavenworth.

More rain dampened areas in the Dakotas and northern Minnesota and in the northern Pacific Coast states. Mostly fair weather prevailed in other sections of the country.

Hot weather continued in the Southeast and other parts of the South, with some of the warm air extending northward into Illinois, Iowa and Indiana.

It was cool in New England in some Western sections with temperatures in the 30s and low 40s.

steering his ship (sometimes upside down), reporting on his physical condition, etc., he has a couple of new tasks.

1. On his second pass over Cape Canaveral, Carpenter is to release a small, plastic many-colored balloon and tow it behind his spaceship. He will release also a cloud of plastic confetti. One idea here is to see which color shows up best to the human eye in space. This information could come in very handy when men try to join up two orbiting vehicles and sail away to the moon.

2. Carpenter is to keep an eye on a little glass sphere in his capsule. This sphere contains water dyed green. Scientists know little about how liquids behave when weightless. They are betting the water won't float around in droplets but will rise in a little standpipe in the sphere, because of surface tension.

As was the case with Glenn, the launch time will determine in large part how many orbits Carpenter will make. This is because recovery teams want at least three hours of daylight to fish Carpenter and his capsule out of the western Atlantic.

Traveling at a speed of about 17,500 miles an hour, it would take Carpenter about 4½ hours to make a triple circuit. If he makes one orbit, the plan is to bring him down 500 miles east of Bermuda; two orbits, 450 miles south of Bermuda; three orbits, 800 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral.

United Education Assn. Elects Joseph Marra

HANOVERTON—Joseph Marra, guidance counselor, was elected president of the United Education Association at its annual spring dinner meeting Tuesday evening at United School. He succeeds Richard Stoffer.

Others elected were Mrs. Kathryn Bennett, vice president; Mrs. Marjorie Fair, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Anne Hart, treasurer. Stoffer reviewed last year's activities to the 70 members, wives and husbands, school executives and school board members, who attended.

The cafeteria cooks prepared the dinner, and the teachers of America Club served.

National Park, Oregon; at Auburn, Springfield; and at Lebanon, Indiana.

In the summer of 1955 he studied in Europe on projects sponsored by the Lutheran World Federation and Division of Student Service of the National Lutheran Council. An intern year was spent at the student church at Cornell University.

In his Cincinnati pastorate he led Good Shepherd congregation, in a growing suburb, from a membership of 287 to 900 and a second unit is now under construction. He is serving as chairman of the synodical Lutheran students committee.

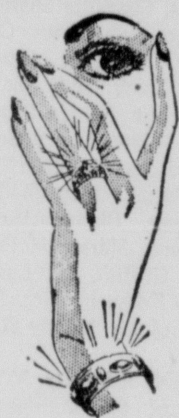

Married in 1958 to Miss Margaret Setter of Cincinnati, he has one son, Gregory, 3, and one daughter, Joy, 1.

The interim appointment became necessary when Rev. Richard W. Powell, former director who had served in this capacity for nine years, resigned to become Pastor of Hope Lutheran Church, Toledo.

A proposed referendum to change Ohio's Sunday closing law was attacked in a resolution adopted by the Synod yesterday.

The resolution stated the referendum, initiated by the Lawson Milk Co. by circulation of a petition, is not the way to deal with such a complex issue.

Delegates at the denomination's convention also approved a resolution urging their church members to support the abolition of capital punishment.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint for those who have trouble removing engine oil from white shirts.

We own two restaurants and when the stoves and french fryers are being cleaned . . . the grease can be every bit as black as engine oil when it gets on clothing!

I have found that the perfect solution is liquid rug cleaner!

Entire garment should be dipped in a solution of half water and half liquid rug cleaner, then squeezed out and left to sit for 10 minutes before washing as usual . . . removes every bit of our grease.

If only one garment needs cleaning, mix just enough fluid to wet the garment thoroughly.

To remove grass stains and oil stains (such as those from roadways) from children's clothing, use undiluted liquid rug cleaner and just rub the spot briskly, then wash as usual.

With white jackets and light pants . . . the style for boys this year . . . liquid rug cleaner is the only thing I know of that will do a perfect job and it has never hurt any of the materials that I have used it on.

And, Heloise, for Nylon and Dacron uniforms, use window spray cleaner to remove those stubborn spots! Spray and rub until spots disappear.

Mrs. Warren Myers

I have checked with the executive vice president of a manufacturer of liquid rug cleaners. He informs me that his rug shampoo is non-toxic and contains no carbon tetrachloride whatsoever (which is dangerous if inhaled). It is completely safe and could be used full strength.

However, since it is a 12-to-1 concentrate, one must admit that it could take a good deal of rinsing to remove if it were used straight. He suggests best results are obtained from following directions on the bottle. Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I suggest that wives mark articles they want to clip later by tearing off the corner of the page of the newspaper. The family can still read the newspaper intact, but the torn corner will sure same time when you get around to clipping.

I separate bacon into one-serving portions by placing wax paper between the portions when I bring the bacon home from the market.

I also put bread in one-meal units. Just slip it into plastic bags and fasten them with pipe cleaners (which can be used over and over again) before putting it into the freezer. Freezing a week's supply or more gives us fresh bread at a moment's notice.

Instead of washing my sponges in the washing machine once a week, I pop them in my dishwasher each time I wash the dishes.

More and more of us look forward to this column daily. Keep it coming.

Mrs. Matthew Barcellona

Deal Heloise:

A tip for working or just plain busy mothers: Prepare casseroles ahead of time, even when cooking your regular dinner or during the evening. It then requires only a minimum of time to reheat the precooked food.

Also, roasts cooked very slowly at about 200 degrees during the evening are much more delicious and retain the natural juices.

Reheating takes a minimum of time, too.

Joyce J.

You are right about the roast being cooked at 200 degrees. Less shrinkage too. Even if you reheat for two hours, your roast will still be pinkish inside. I tested this and found it so.

Yanks, Twins Win Close Ones

Four N.Y. Hurlers Twirl One-Hitter

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Even for the New York Yankees, who have scored victories of all kinds in their long parade of success, a 12-inning, four-man one-hitter is a new way to win.

The Yankees staged that dramatic little gem Tuesday night, edging the Los Angeles Angels 2-1 and recapturing a slender lead in the American League race.

Whitey Ford, the stylish left-hander, played the lead pitcher's role with seven hitless innings before he was forced to retire with a strained back muscle. Jim Coates kept it going until one was out in the ninth when Bob Rodgers singled for the lone Angel hit, then Bud Daley went two and Bob Turley pitched the 12th.

The Yanks got eight hits and 10 walks—seven of them intentional—off four Los Angeles pitchers but had to squeeze out their runs, both of which scored on sacrifice flies by Elston Howard. Rookie Joe Pepitone had three of the New York hits and set up both runs while Roger Maris, the Yankees' walking man in the absence of the ailing Mickey Mantle, drew five passes—four of them intentional for a one-game major league record.

Lead By Whisker

By winning the Yanks took over first by 13 percentage points over the Minnesota Twins, who outlasted Washington 6-5. Baltimore, with pitcher Milt Pappas and slugger Jim Gentile supplying the power, beat Cleveland 4-1 and dropped the Indians from first to third, ½ game off the pace. Kansas City pinned the eighth straight loss on Boston, 5-1 in the only other AL game scheduled.

The Angels jumped ahead of Ford and the Yanks in the first when Albie Pearson walked, stole second, took third on a ground out and scored on Steve Bilko's fly. Dean Chance blanked the Yankees until the sixth, then Tom Tresh walked and came around on a single by Pepitone, an intentional walk to Maris and Howard's first scoring fly.

Turned back by relievers Ryno Duen, Jack Spring and Tom Morgan through the 11th, the Yankees finally broke it open in the 12th with Pepitone again the key. The reserve outfielder tripled with one out and after intentional walks to Maris and Hector Lopez, Howard lofted a fly to right. Lee Thomas made the catch near the foul line, wheeled and made a good peg home—but too late to head off Pepitone.

Stigman Quells Uprising

The Twins packed their six runs into the second and third innings, then had to stand off the Senators down to the wire. Minnesota starter Georges Maranda, who doubled twice and drove in the deciding run, had to be bailed out by Lee Stange in the fifth and Dick Stigman was needed to quell another uprising in the seventh. Ray Moore stymied the final Washington rally in the eighth and was credited with the victory, his third in four decisions.

Lennie Green hit a two-run homer for the Twins in the second and they routed Joe McClain in the third with a four-run cluster highlighted by singles by Bob Allison and Jerry Zimmerman and Maranda's first double. Chuck Cortland whacked a two-run homer in the Senators' seventh, making it 6-5, but Stigman and Moore kept the opposition at bay the rest of the way.

Oh, Those Bases On Balls Are Murder

Come Back, Mick --- Roger Cries

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Hey, Mick," went the plaintive cry, "you'd better get back here. I'm tired of getting all these damn walks."

Roger Maris, who set a major league record for intentional bases on balls in the New York Yankees' 2-1, 12-inning victory over the Los Angeles Angels, put in a call to ailing Mickey Mantle at Lenox Hill Hospital immediately after the game Tuesday night.

Home Run Ball Works Both Ways

CHICAGO (AP)—The Cleveland sluggers weren't able to find the home run range for the first time in the last 10 games Tuesday night and the Indians dropped to third place in the American League.

The Indians' pitchers, however, were overly generous with gopher balls as the Orioles defeated the Tribe 4-1 at Baltimore.

A two-run homer by winner Milt Pappas (5-2) and a pair of bases empty homers by Jim Gentile provided the Orioles with all their runs.

Cleveland's only run came on back-back doubles by Bubba Phillips and Jerry Kindall in the seventh inning.

The Indians got only five hits—none of them roundtrippers. The Tribe had belted 28 homers in nine previous games, a major league record.

The Indians have hit 47 homers, second highest in the league, but Cleveland pitchers have yielded the most homers in either circuit, 53.

Undefeated Dick Donovan will try for his eighth victory tonight against the Chicago White Sox. Juan Pizarro (2-4).

Slo-Pitch Softball Loop To Organize Tonight

The first and only meeting of the Salem Softball Association sponsored Slo-Pitch Softball League will be held in the Memorial Building tonight at 7:30, according to Tom Butler, assistant superintendent of parks and recreation.

The meeting will be for signing up teams, explaining the rules and collecting entry fees to operate the league. Team managers are requested to have their team rosters ready to hand in.

Major League Stars

By The Associated Press
Batting—George Altman, Cubs, accounted for all Chicago runs in 3-1 victory over Pittsburgh with two-run homer and run-scoring single.

Pitching — Bob Gibson, Cardinals, stretched St. Louis' winning streak to six games with four-hitter that beat Philadelphia 6-2.

after the game Tuesday night.

His first words to the other half of the Yanks' slugging duo were a half-joking plea for the quick return of New York's star center fielder, who is hospitalized with a muscle tear in his right leg.

"Now I know how it feels," Maris told Mantle of the intentional walks.

Maris, who normally bats third and Mantle fourth, usually doesn't have to worry too much about intentional bases on balls. Most managers and pitchers don't care to walk Maris with Mickey coming up. Mantle has walked 39 times in 30 games this season.

With Mickey out, Roger is finding out how the other half lives. The pitchers are passing him to get to either John Blanchard or Hector Lopez.

He faced the pitcher six times Tuesday night and drew five bases on balls, the last four intentional. It was announced as a major league record for intentional passes.

Will Play At Kelley Field

Two Girls Softball Teams Highlight Thursday's Card

Two of the top girls softball teams in the state, each featuring a Salem area player, will clash in the main attraction of a two-game card at Kelley Field Thursday night.

In the first game at 7:30, the Salem Merchants of the Penn-Ohio League will tangle with Warren Laurel Lanes. The locals will be seeking their first win of the season. John Guiler will probably hurl for the locals, according to manager Dave Briskin.

In the evening's final game, scheduled for 9, the Wooster Lumber Co. team, 1961 state champions will play the Hubbard Girls.

Janet Reeder, Wooster star from nearby Hanoverton, will probably start in left field. Although hampered by an injured ankle, she expects to be in shape for the title here Thursday. Wooster's top hurler, Wilda Kadar, will hurl with Sally Ocker to catch. Top hitter and star shortstop for the state champions is Darlene Sapp.

Wooster Girls compete in the Michigan-Ohio Girls Major Fastpitch Softball League, consisting of teams from Detroit, Wyandotte and Adrian, Mich., and Lorain. Currently they are 3-0 in league play.

Also on Wooster's schedule are teams from Dayton, Cincinnati, Columbus and Indianapolis, Ind.

The national champions from Whittier, Calif., will make an appearance Aug. 18 at Wooster Fairgrounds, home field of the Woosters.

Janet Reeder

General manager of the Wooster team is Tela Cranmer, a cousin of Salem Mayor Dean Cranmer.

One of the standouts for the Hubbard Girls is Betty McKenna, Girls physical education instructor at Salem Senior High. Miss Reeder calls Betty "the best fielding girl shortstop I've seen." Pitching for the Hubbard Girls will be Alice Lyth.

Hubbard Girls are in a league with Dallin, O., Cumberland, Md., Alliquippa, Pa., Mountsville, W. Va., and Elizabeth, Pa.

Beaver Boosters To Share Cost of Additional Bleachers

The Beaver Local Booster Club, meeting at the high school Tuesday night, voted to share expenses with the Beaver Local School Athletic Assn. in the purchase of additional bleachers for the football field.

The extra bleachers will provide seats for 1,000 persons. The club took the action following a talk by George VanHorne, executive head of the school, on the recent meeting of the athletic association at which time that organization approved the purchase.

George Gaydos, chairman of the club's trustees, announced the club had purchased a 12-passenger station wagon at a cost of $400.

Reports were given by Miss Leola Barton, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Mary Berger, treasurer. The club authorized Mrs. Berger to pay bills totaling $249 for the high school spring sports banquet and the grade school all-sports banquet.

Mrs. Charles Smith, refreshment committee chairman for the auction held at the grade school Saturday, reported the event netted $55.

Robert Miller of radio station WOHI was guest speaker.

The club announced it will sponsor a professional wrestling match at the High School June 14 at 8 p.m. Foyn Wright was named chairman of the event. Michael Klembara was named cleanup chairman.

Mrs. Leo Jenkins, chairman of last night's entertainment committee, presented a program consisting of a tumbling act and musical numbers, with Mrs. Patricia Todd, musical education instructor, in charge. The tumblers were Thelma Cochran, Barbara Weber, June and Betty Armstrong, Beverly Windle, Sally Martin and Marilyn Hazel, high school students.

Jim Crawford, a seventh grade pupil, played three piano selections and Rudy Hoffman, a sophomore, presented two accordion Refreshments were served by Mrs. George Dunn. Thirty attend, with Steve Barborak, president, presiding.

The next meeting will be June 12 at 7:30 at the high school. Mrs. Gaydos will be in charge of the entertainment, and Mrs. Mildred Emmerling and Mrs. Barton will be on the refreshment committee.

Downes Whips Don Fullmer

LONDON (AP)—Terry Downes, with one member of the Fighting Fullmer family vanquished, waited today to take on the next— with the world middleweight boxing title as the prize.

The dynamic Londoner, who formerly served in the U.S. Marines, outpointed Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, over 10 furious rounds at London's Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

That put him in line for a crack at Don's brother Gene, who is recognized as world champion by

Need Answers In Fight Probe

Kid Paret's Manager Could Shed Light

NEW YORK (AP)—An air of hysteria hung over the committee room today as the joint legislative probe into the death of Benny (Kid) Paret entered its third and final session.

Two questions are foremost in the minds of the investigators:

1. Where are the income tax records of Paret's manager, Manuel Alfaro?

2. What happened to $35,000 Paret was alleged to have been carrying when he left Las Vegas last year after a fight with Gene Fullmer?

"We must have those tax records to show us whether Alfaro is indeed the benevolent patron of fighters who claims he never made any money out of boxers until Paret became champion," said committee chairman Hayward Plumadore.

Observed Joseph F. Soviero, committee counsel: "We want to know what happened to the $260,000 Paret earned between 1958 and 1962."

Alfaro testified Tuesday that he understood Paret carried $35,000 in cash when he headed for Miami after the Fullmer fight.

"Benny didn't want to put the money in the bank and so I told him to hide it behind the end of a drawer in his wardrobe," Alfaro testified. "Whether he did or not, I don't know."

Paret died on April 2 of injuries he sustained in a middleweight championship bout with Emile Griffith in Madison Square Garden. The committee is holding the hearings to determine if boxing as a sport should be outlawed in New York State.

Alfaro had been asked to bring his tax records with him. When he appeared empty-handed, he was ordered to produce the records at an executive committee meeting on June 13.

He said he had phoned his accountant numerous times and left messages but that he hadn't heard from him.

2 Young Golfers Among Casualties In Open Qualifiers

By The Associated Press
A couple of the game's bright youngsters, Davey Marr and Billy Farrell, and veteran Herman Barrow were among the casualties as 73 more golfers qualified Tuesday for the next stage of eliminations for the U.S. Open Championships.

Competition for the 73 spots at Chicago and in the New York Metropolitan area wound up the "local" qualifying. The 73 will join 402 others who qualified last Friday and Monday for the second-stage eliminations June 4-5 at 13 cities around the country.

By nightfall on June 5, exactly 132 will have survived for the championship proper at the Oakmont, Pa., Country Club June 14-16. The total field for the Open will be 151, including defending champion Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and 16 others exempt for all qualifying tests.

MANAGERS TO MEET

Managers of all the Salem Junior Baseball League teams will meet Friday at the Legion Home. All rosters and release forms must be turned in at this meeting. Commissioner John Herman Jr., reminds.

UMPIRES MEETING SET

The Junior Baseball Umpire Association will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Legion Home. Anyone wishing to umpire games this season is urged to attend.

Fourth Street Easily Cops Grade School Track Title

Fourth Street's tracksters proved beyond a doubt that they are the best elementary team in the city Tuesday night as they dominated the second annual grade school track meet held at Reilly Stadium.

The winners notched a total of 47½ points, well ahead of second place Prospect which ended the winning relay team as Fourth Street copped firsts in all but one of the seven events.

Terry sprinted the 50-yard dash in 6.7 to place ahead of Prospect's Rand Smucker and Terry's twin brother Tom, also of Fourth Street. He out-jumped his nearest competitor in the broad jump by better than a foot to win that event. Terry leaped an even 15 feet while runnerup Clayton Holt of Reilly was second at 13.8.

IN THE 50-YARD low hurdles, Terry and teammate Gary Franklin were each timed at 9.0 to tie for the number one spot. Terry Smith of McKinley was third, going the distance in 9.1.

Terry, Tom and Franklin, along with Billy Wilson combined in the 220-yard relay to edge runnerup McKinley with a time of 29.7—just one-tenth of a second better than the second best team.

Fourth Street's Ricky Liber heaved the shot 30-11 to give the winners another first. Two Prospect athletes, Tom Good and Rick Jones, placed second and third, respectively.

TOM SHEETS, Franklin, Randy Erath, Mark Getz, Gary Bryan, Danny Cain, Billy Wilson and George Spack each ran a leg of the 440-yard relay. The eight sprinters combined for a time of 63.2 to better second place McKinley by three-tenths of a second.

Dodgers Hand Giants Fifth Defeat in Last Seven Games

By The Associated Press
Tommy Davis can't break the habit. But then nobody's sending him for a cure.

The 23-year-old Los Angeles outfielder, who has gotten into the habit of gorging himself on San Francisco pitching, belted a decisive two-run homer against the Giants for the second game in succession as the third-place Dodgers knocked off the National League leaders 5-1 Tuesday night.

Davis hit a two-run shot for a 3-0 lead Monday night, driving in the runs that proved to be all the Dodgers needed in an 8-1 triumph. Tuesday night he tagged a two-run blast in the fourth inning that snapped a 1-1 tie and sent the Dodgers out front to stay.

Davis now has eight hits in 16 at-bats against San Francisco this year—a neat .500 average—and 11 runs batted in for the four games with the Giants.

The defeat, fifth in seven games for the Giants, cut their edge over the Dodgers and second-place St. Louis to 2½ games. The Cardinals remained percentage points ahead of Los Angeles, extending their winning streak to six games by whipping Philadelphia 6-2 behind Bob Gibson's four-hitter.

Fourth-place Cincinnati nipped Milwaukee 3-2 in 11 innings, Chicago's Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 3-1 and Houston beat the New York Mets 3-2 in other games.

Jim Gilliam's single following a single by Larry Burright and a sacrifice, scored the Dodgers first run in the third, but the Giants tied it in the sixth on a double by Willie Mays and Chuck Hiller's single. In the Dodger sixth Willie Davis singled with one out and Tommy Davis tagged his 10th homer off Jack Sanford.

Stan Williams (3-1), who allowed only three hits for eight innings, got credit for the victory with relief help from Larry Sherry after the first two Giants singled in the ninth.

Gibson (6-2)) had a two-hitter going until the ninth when Tony Taylor singled and Johnny Callison homered, snapping a string of 22 scoreless innings by the Cardinals' right-hander. Three errors by the Phils contributed to their fourth straight loss as Bob Wine's bad throw and a dropped fly by Billy Klaus with the bases loaded gave St. Louis three runs. Paul Brown (0-1) took the tough loss.

The Reds came up with two in the 11th as Gordy Coleman, who had homered in the second, led off with a single. A walk and singles by Don Blasingame and Leo Cardenas drove in the runs that won it for Jim O'Toole (4-5). The Braves scored one in their half on Roy McMillan's run-producing single. O'Toole left for a pinch hitter after hurling 10 innings, and Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry finished up. Bob Shaw (4-2) lost it.

OUT OF DOORS with Field &amp; Stream

By RUFUS LIDE

This is the time of the year when baby raccoon are being taught by the mother to survive in the wilds. Not only does the mother teach her young how to catch fish, frogs, clams etc., but other aquatic animals which are their primary sources of food.

Once they learn how to "fish" for themselves the mother plays a little game of "hide-out"—slipping away from her babies, but always keeping a watchful eye on what they are doing. Even when it comes time to take her pack back to the den tree, the one that seems to be afraid to climb the tree gets a good spanking.

THAT'S WHERE people begin to interfere with nature. The first children that come along begin trying to capture the babies and take them home. Then one of the parents calls the game protector wanting a permit to keep them. This is an absolute illegal procedure. Don't do it! Teach the youngsters to look at wildlife and enjoy it, but keep their hands off.

Once a raccoon has been domesticated, he invariably gets too bossy and turns on his would be benefactors with his fangs. Then he is given a trip back to his woodland home. The animal has been done a terrible injustice. He becomes a killer of chickens or turkeys.

IN THIS CASE the owner of the poultry farm gladly places a bullet through the thief and all because some misguided person taught him to live around human beings. This is just one of the results of "coon-nappers" reversing nature's way of life.

Nature can be dangerous as well. Take for instance skunks.

They are known to contract rabies. Caution should be exercised when any animal acts unafraid of human beings and better yet, get away from them before you get bitten.

I ALSO WOULD like to remind people that foxes are on the vermin list and not under the jurisdiction of the Ohio Division of Wildlife any more than snakes or rats. The bounty that has been paid in recent years of $3.00 for four fox paws by the Columbiana County Commissioners has been discontinued for lack of funds.

Once each year I have to get the official record of bounty payments and turn it into the state and for the past 10 years approximately $15,000.00 has been passed out.

If sportsmen think foxes need controlling then help your sport by getting rid of them without expecting cash awards.

Raymond Matvey of Salem caught a walleye at Guilford last Saturday, 27 in. long weighing 7 lbs. It was taken on a No. 3 Heddon "Hep" spinner.

1962 Group Could Be Greatest

Trackmen Have Bettered 8 Of 14 State Records

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State meet records in 8 of 14 high school track-field events have been bettered in preliminary trials this spring, indicating one of the strongest groups in history will compete Friday and Saturday in the 55th Ohio High School Championships at Ohio State.

Oddly, the state meet performances—generally recognized as the Ohio records—have been bettered in 12 of the 14 events over the years. The only state tournament efforts which rate as the best are the 46.6-second quarter mile by Lakewood's Dave Mills in 1958 and the 59-foot, 9¾-inch shot put by Wickliffe's Paul LaSpina the same year.

All the others have been eclipsed in various relay meets. Even the great Jesse Owens of Cleveland East Tech, who still holds the state meet records in the 100-yard, 220-yard and broad jump, had better performances elsewhere.

But this weekend's classic, if good weather prevails, could be a record-shattering event. Seldom have so many great ones come up in a single year to menace the marks of the previous 54 seasons.

The state meet records in the 880-yard and mile runs, the high and low hurdles, the half-mile and mile relays, and the high jump and pole vault have been bettered in the 1962 tuneups. Here, as compiled by Ed Chay of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, are the season's best performances, with the state meet records in parentheses:

100-Yard Dash (:09.6)—Morrow, Cleveland Collinwood; Druiann, Shaker Heights, and Goings, Toledo Libbey, all :09.8.

220-Yard Dash (:20.8)—Gyongyos, Euclid, :21.3.

440-Yard Dash (:46.6)—Warrmack, Cleveland East Tech, :48.7.

880-Yard Run (1:56.9)—Payne, Dayton Roosevelt, 1:55.7.

1 Mile Run (4:24.1)—Schramm, Cincinnati Deer Park, 4:18.0.

120-Yard High Hurdles (:14.4)—Kardos, Shaker Heights, :14.0.

180-Yard Low Hurdles (:18.9)—Goings, Toledo Libbey, :18.8.

880-Yard Relay (1:28.8)—Shaker Heights and Cleveland East Tech, 1:28.7.

1 Mile Relay (3:21.7)—Dayton Dunbar, 3:21.6.

Shot Put (60-9¾)—Funk, Lakewood, 57-10.

Discus Throw (174-9½)—Brown, Youngstown East, 163-11.

Broad Jump (24-3¼)—Burlong, Dayton Roosevelt, 23-6¾.

High Jump (6-5)—Wimberly, Akron Buchtel, 6-6.

Pole Vault (13-9½)—King, Hilliards, 13-10½.

Old School Ties

By FRANCIS TILLEY
For Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Old school ties remain strong and that's why
I'd like to do something for my old high school in Tecumseh, Okla.

However, it grieves me to send word to Tecumseh that I can't send $90,000.

They want to build a new high school, and that's why they need the $90,000. Maybe if I try hard, I can manage $9 of it.

What? Tear down those sacred halls, where trod my adolescent feet of yesteryear? Where I learned at the hand of some of the worthiest schoolmasters and marmes ever to rap my knuckles and knuckle-head?

Well, as I get it, if those sacred halls of my revered high school of 1916 vintage aren't torn down they are going to fall down.

"I don't want to see it go. It belongs to me. I belong to it. Let the plaster crumble. Let the floors sag. Let the roof leak. I shall keep it and cherish it forever, just the same.

"But anyway, they need a new building before education collapses in Tecumseh, Okla.

I wasn't aware of this until I got a long-distance call a while back from an old hometown friend, Jeannine Brooks, nee Cooper. She wanted my help, as a loyal alumnus.

She wanted me to send out the word to other loyal alumni to send money. Well, I said, I don't know just how I can do that. Put it in

On the Bookshelves

New Books at Salem Public Library

NON-FICTION

THE COLD WAR AND ITS ORIGINS by D. F. Fleming. An exhaustive study of East - West relationships since 1917. Mr. Fleming has been Professor of International Relations at Vanderbilt University since 1928. He has travelled extensively throughout the world, and has served as an adviser to the State Department.

SEADRAGON by Commander George P. Steele, USN. The skipper of the nuclear submarine Seadrone tells of his voyage under the ice of the Northwest Passage; of finding their way under icebergs, charting their under-water parts; making all kinds of experiments not before tried in the Arctic; developing new instruments for doing jobs not previously done.

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF LILIES by F. F. Rockwell and Esther C. Grayson and Jan de Graff. The Senior Editor of Flower Grower Magazine, and his wife, combine their talents with a professional photographer and an authority on bulbs to produce a book which is not only beautiful, but seems very nearly complete for its type.

THE ART OF TRAINING PLANTS by Ernesta Drinker B. Lard. Much of the space in this guide to indoor and other pruned plants is devoted to bonsai. One of the interesting features of this book is that it contains directions for controlling a great many more varieties of plants than the average book on the subject.

THE MODERN HOUSE, U.S.A. by Kate Ellen Rogers. Miss Rogers discusses housing needs, house plans with separate chapters for each type of room - and house furnishings.

A TURN AT THE WHEEL by Stirling Moss. An eye - witness account of four years of motor-car racing. The years are 1957 - 1960, and it was during this time that British drivers came to the fore in the sport. This is must reading for racing enthusiasts.

AN ARMY OF AMATEURS by Philippe de Vomécourt. Methods and techniques used by the French Resistance Army during World War II are here vividly described by a man who helped to organize these daring activities.

I WAS JACQUELINE KENNEDY'S DRESSMAKER by Mini Rhea. A very personal and human story, albeit one which would have no reason to be told if it were not for the special qualities of the subject.

THE FIERCEST BATTLE by Ronald Seth. An hour-by-hour account of convoy ONS 5 which made the Atlantic crossing during April and May of 1943 when damage of Allied shipping by German U-boats was at its peak. This particular story is worth recounting because in history's eye-view it was one of the crucial moments of World War II.

INSIDE EUROPE TODAY by John Gunther. This 1962 edition of the title which was published in 1961 is vastly changed, due to the many events which have occurred meantime.

LIFE MAGAZINE TREASURY OF AMERICAN FOLKLORE. A nicely-illustrated book, and one which attempts to include tales from olden days to modern and from the various parts of the country, as well as from the various ethnic groups. Not as well documented as the well-known Botkin series of titles, but well worth having.

FICTION

DREAD THE SUNSET by Marjorie Carleton. When Ellen Brent took a part-time job at a nursing home catering to rich elderly people, everything was lovely - at first. Then she began to suspect that some of the complaints by the patients were not imaginary. The suspense is well sustained in this novel, and the writing is better than the usual.

QUIMBY AND SON by Marian Champagne. The Quimby family history for 100 years, from 1830 to 1930. It is sparkling and interesting writing, and one becomes at once interested in the fate of the principal characters. Along with the story of the family is the story of the family business which develops into the first chain of modern supermarkets.

ZANDRA by Irene Fekete. A young man, permanently crippled in an automobile accident, keeps a journal during his convalescence. He goes to his family home to stay, and there meets a young girl who falls in love with him. The story is nicely done.

A TIME TO PASS OVER by H. Gordon Green. The doctor said that Mary Ann couldn't overcome the pneumonia that had her in its grip, so all of her eight sons were notified. But Mary Ann had other ideas about it, and she proved that sheer will power could be more effective than medicine. With humor and wit, this is a true-to-life record of an imaginary family.

A SIMPLE HONORABLE MAN by Conrad Richter. A man already approaching middle age, and with a family to support, is called so strongly to become a minister that he succeeds in finding a way to do it. This is the sensitively-written story of that ministry - always in small and poor churches, and with seldom any gratitude from his parishioners.

HORNSTEIN'S BOY by Robert Traver. The author of "Anatomy of a Murder" writes of a lawyer who goes into politics. It happens because his wealthy friend Hornstein urges him to run for Senator. There is much conflict between his ideas of what is right and what is politically expedient. The style is similar to the earlier book.

NINE HOURS TO RAMA by Stanley Wolpert. A suspense novel built around the assassination of Mahatma Gandhi. The author teaches the history of India at U.C.L.A.

THE SAN FRANCISCANS by Nuven Busch. The author of "California Street" writes of a wealthy widow and an ambitious attorney with no social background. They begin as enemies, but become lovers.

THE LONELY GIRL by Edna O'Brien. A naive young Irish girl falls in love with an older man. He is a writer, very much a man of the world, and she is happy with him for a time. She finally leaves him, goes to England, where she continues her education while making her living working in a shop.

For Young People:

A GIRL CALLED CHRIS by

Marg Nelson. Her father was dead, so Chris had to earn the money for her college tuition. She was extra tall, and shy, so she was not very hopeful about being able to find a summer job. But it turned out a lot different than anything she could have dreamed.

Try Strawberry Cheese Pie

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Isn't it nice to know that something as utterly delectable as fresh strawberries are so good for you?

Not only are the small crimson berries an excellent source of vitamin C, the nutrient we need daily, but "fresh strawberries still with caps on and unpunctured, apparently retain their vitamin C content as long as they are edible whether stored under refrigeration or at room temperature."

Even weight-watchers can eat strawberries — a cup yields only 54 calories.

Follow Escoffier's lead and serve sugared strawberries gently mixed with orange juice. Or partner the berries with fresh pineapple for a first course, a salad or a dessert. Fold strawberries into whipped cream as a luscious filling for eclairs, cream puffs, indented cupcakes, sponge roll or sponge-cake layers.

Or try one of the most delightful desserts of all: our favorite formula for cream cheese pie topped with the bright red berry.

Strawberry Cream Cheese Pie

1 cup finely crushed graham cracker crumbs, 1/4 cup chopped (medium-coarse) walnuts, 1/4 cup butter (melted), 2 eggs, 3 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese (softened), 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, fresh strawberries.

Mix crumbs, walnuts and butter; press over bottom and sides of an 8-inch pie plate.

Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven 5 minutes. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored. Beat together the cheese, sugar and vanilla until combined; add eggs and beat to blend. Turn into crumb crust.

Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven 20 minutes. Cool and chill. Garnish with halved fresh strawberries.

If you like, you may gild the lily by accompanying the pie with a sauce made from fresh or frozen strawberries.

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN

'Hidden' Alcoholic Poses Problem

In each community and in every doctor's practice, there are a certain number of "hidden alcoholics." Most often, in my experience, the "silent drunk" has enough money to purchase a supply of liquor without too greatly unbalancing the household budget. Spacious living quarters often make it possible for the drunkard to imbibe alcoholic beverages and sleep off their effects without attracting the attention of neighbors, associates or even members of the same household.

I recall, for example, a bank officer, believed to be a total abstainer, who regularly drank a quart of whisky before retiring. His performance was matched by several social leaders and at least one prim school principal whose dependence was on gin.

DESPITE MY familiarity with the problem of the hidden alcoholic, I had no idea of how prevalent the condition is until I read a recent report in the North Carolina Medical Journal. For, after interviewing 100 adult male patients in a search for nonalcoholic egory of hidden alcoholism, control subjects, it was discovered that 29 probably fell into the category. The men included in his category gave histories of (1) periods of blackout while intoxicated; (2) sneaking and gulping drinks; (3) inability to control their intake of alcoholic beverages; (4) need to take a morning "eye opener"; (5) loss of friends, families or jobs due to drinking or (6) actual hospitalization on some previous occasion for alcoholism.

Yet none of these patients was admitted to the hospital for any condition related to alcoholism.

None had any sign of nutritional deficiency, presumably because they had the means to obtain a balanced diet despite the daily costs of their alcoholic beverages. And in none was alcoholism given consideration in the diagnosis of the condition for which hospital admission was sought.

SINCE THESE "hidden alcoholics" frequently come on evil days, it is a matter of utmost urgency for friends, members of the family and business associates to detect the condition and then persuade the silent drinker to seek help before it is too late.

Particularly is this of importance to members of the household. In too many instances, devastating fires have been started and lives lost when a hidden alcoholic fell asleep with a lighted cigarette in hand.

MARTHA WAYNE

A word from

THERON at the

Old Country Store

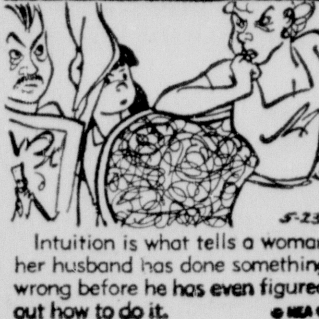

It kind of hurts me to see any independent merchant take on those chain store trading stamps. By doing so they are insisting that their customers which in most cases are my customers go to the chains to buy their groceries.

One of my customers said they are a bunch of parasites. I wouldn't put it that strong. They seem more like leaches. I guess every business man has his own limit as to how far he will go to make a dollar.

Questions—Answers

Q—Which is the largest of the trade unions?
A—The world's biggest union is the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America.
Q—What historic event took place on Cambridge Common near Boston?
A—George Washington took command of the Continental Army in 1775.
